FORMAT

The journal is published three times per year. Articles are welcome from students of anthropology and from people in other disciplines. It is preferred that the main emphasis should be on analytical discussion rather than on plain description. Papers should be as short as is necessary to get the point over. As a general rule they should not exceed 5,000 words. They should follow the conventions for citations, notes and references used in the A.S.A. monographs. Comments will also be welcome. Communications should be addressed to the Journal Editors, Institute of Social Anthropology, 51 Banbury Road, Oxford.

The editors wish to apologise for the standard of proof-reading in the last issue, which was rather more hurriedly produced than we would have wished for. Thanks are due to Tim and Kathy Weiskl, who translated Mare Augé's paper, to Paul Dresch, and all those who have helped with the production of this issue.
